I received an email stating that starting next week my child who will be online can ask questions but there would be no live session for him to hear!

How are the teachers going to teach their online students to keep them on the same learning scale with in class students.

As a parent of a fourth grader I am concerned about the discontinuation of synchronous learning for our scholars.

My scholar is also concerned because she will not receive live teaching nor be able to ask questions live.

Can you please provide a reason why CHISD will not offer Synchronous learning when some of the other larger school districts are able to..DISD, GPISD

Our virtual learners need live "face-to-face" time their teacher and it makes a difference in their learning.

After we open to a second round of students coming back, how will the classrooms be adjusted for more students and still maintain 6ft distancing?

A 20x26ft classroom starts with 8 students then after Oct 16th 10 more students want to come back, how do add them safely. The room is too small.

August we were told that all scholars would be wearing a mask with breaks for PK-second. The blueprint now states that only in common are masks worn.

Please clarify!

Walk us through how the scholars who continue in Flex Learning will be integrated into real-time classroom and teaching while they remain virtual.

Asynchronous learning strategy falling short

Teachers are afraid

When will teachers be given direction as to how next week will work? We have no idea the protocols or procedures for keeping scholars safe.

Will there be open communication to all families (traditional and virtual) about COVID-related occurrences?

Since everyone started virtual, parents have no idea how safe or unsafe traditional is. The next few weeks/months can give us an idea.

Lack of Leadership

Teachers don't know the plan and when we ask questions we aren't given answers. It is very frustrating and disappointing.

Are the custodians going to be cleaning the rooms nightly? I have noticed since the return the only thing getting done is the trash taken out and what

I do in the classroom.

Will elementary students at school be able to leave the regular classroom for specials classes? Music, Art, etc?

Students need a break from their regular classroom so they don't feel "trapped" in one room all day.

Why is the communication that comes out about virtual and in-person learning is lacking information?

For ex. the dates for Oct 6th was not clear it was for the commitment made in August for in-person and Oct 19th is for the 2nd commitment.
